LINES OF THE FACE.

THEIR RELATION TO THE BEARD AND THE MUSTACHE.

A Knowledge of Drawing on the Part of Men, Says a Woman Artist, Would Have the Effect of Enhancing Masculine Good Looks.

"A knowledge of drawing on the part of men would have the effect of increasing their good looks," said a lady teacher of that art recently, "and it would make presentable many a man whose appearance is not calculated to excite admiration. It sounds an odd combination, drawing and beauty, does it not? Nevertheless it is a fact."

To the natural request for an explanation she replied:

"The first principles of drawing are geometrical lines and curves. These lines and curves occur in everything. A potter in criticising an ugly shaped jug will most probably tell you that its 'lines' are bad. Most of those who dabble in drawing and gain certificates merely learn to make these lines and curves without acquiring the slightest knowledge of their effect.

"Here is an example. Just take this pencil and draw a face. Oh, anything will do! But be sure to make two straight lines over the eyes for eyebrows. That's it. See how serious that expression is?

"Now rub out those straight lines and in their places make two curves with the ends upward. That face has an expression of intense surprise, hasn't it? If you had made curved eyebrows with the ends down in the first instance, the difference between the two would have been more striking.

"Well, the human face has its 'lines,' and by studying them our men could improve their appearance. The most elementary expedient is to adapt the mustache and beard to the lines of the face, and I must here tell you that 'lines' in technical language include both straights and curves. Such an expedient is within the reach of all, and there is no need for me to remind you that the whiskers make a tremendous difference in a man's appearance.

"Take a man with an aquiline nose, clear cut features and broad brow, then imagine this individual with a long, drooping mustache; why, it accentuates the whole 'droop' of the face and spoils it. Such a man should have a small pointed beard and a mustache with ends pointing slightly upward.

"The exact opposite is also frequently met with. A man with features that have a distinct upward tendency will wear a mustache with ends that are turned up and so long that they seem to be thinking of joining the eyebrows. Men with mustaches that display an inclination to grow long ends think that these ends should be permitted to grow and that they must be trained upward. That strikes them as the only proper way. But to suit the lines of the face those ends should in many cases be cut off, and in others they ought to be trained downward.

"Whiskers, again, are allowed to grow whether they suit the face or not. Often a fine, vigorous, manly face is contradicted by an insipid little mustache worn over a firm, clear cut mouth, the expression of which it does much to alter. It is quite a pity to see such fine lines spoilt in that way. The wearer cultivates the hirsute appendage merely because it is the fashion for men to have a mustache. You talk about women being slaves to Dame Fashion, but in the matter of your whiskers you men are worse slaves than we are to dress!

"Now don't run away with the notion that I advocate general shaving. Some men who are clean shaved ought not to be. The lines of their faces simply demand that of which they are depriving their countenance every morning. It requires a strong, very intellectual face to do without beard or mustache. The latter is an absolute necessity for hiding the bad lines of some mouths that would if left totally uncovered spoil the whole face.

"Women as a rule are more careful of their lines and choose hats and other things to match. Men also study their dress more than the hair on their faces, but a knowledge of drawing would correct many mistakes in hats, collars and other masculine accessories.

"In the matter of color we rather pass from the domain of drawing and mere 'lines' and trespass into the realm of painting, but I cannot resist saying that both men and women, especially the former, would be all the better looking if they knew more about the blending of colors, because they would not then choose hues which do not harmonize with their complexions. I have known a man with red hair to wear a red tie because red ties were fashionable!

"We are all going in for art and the beautiful nowadays, and you men are not handsome as a body. You could make yourselves more handsome by attending to such easily managed details as I have pointed out. See that your sons learn drawing."—Pearson's Weekly.

Applied Christianity.

Tommy had been quiet for fully five minutes. He seemed to be engaged with some deep problem.

"Papa," he said.

"Well?"

"'Do unto others as you would have others do unto you'—that's the golden rule, isn't it, papa?"

"Yes, my son."

"And it's puffickly right to follow the golden rule, isn't it, papa?"

"Yes, indeed."

Tommy rose, went to the cupboard and returned with a knife and a large apple pie. The latter he placed before his astonished sire with great solemnity.

"Eat it, papa!" he said.—San Francisco Bulletin.

DRIVEN TO MADNESS.

TIMES WHEN AN EXCESS OF JOY IS LINKED WITH INSANITY.

Some of the Saddest Cases of Lunacy Are Those Where the Mind Is Unable to Stand the Shock of Sudden Good Tidings.

It is no exaggeration to assert, said an asylum doctor of long and varied experience, that there are scores of men and women in our asylums who have literally been sent there through excess of joy. Many of these cases which are, in my opinion, the saddest of all have come under my own observation.

I remember in the very first asylum with which I was connected one of the patients was a strikingly handsome and very well educated man, who was as sane as you or I except on one point. He was really a man of considerable wealth, but his delusion was that he was a pauper, and he would tell the most pitiful tales of his destitution, begging, with tears in his eyes, for a few coppers with which to buy bread.

According to the story told me, he was the only son of a wealthy merchant. In his youth he had fallen among evil companions and had led such a dissolute life that his father not only threatened to disinherit him, but forbade him ever to enter his house again. After that he seems to have sunk into the lowest depths of poverty until he was glad to earn a few coppers by selling papers or matches in the streets.

It was at this last and lowest stage that news came to him that his father had died intestate and that he was heir to all his vast fortune. The sudden news completely turned the man's brain and brought on such a condition of excitement that he had to be sent to an asylum, and when he calmed down again he had lost all recollection of his good fortune, and nothing can shake his delusion that he is on the verge of starvation.

Another patient in the same asylum was a young and in his lucid moments a most intelligent fellow, whose "brain was turned," as the saying is, on learning that he had passed an examination. He had sat for the matriculation examination at the University of London, on passing which he had set his heart and had asked a friend in London to wire the result as soon as the names were screened at Burlington House.

About three weeks later came a fatal telegram, "Failed—sorry," which sent the young man into the lowest depths of despair, for he was too old to sit again. Not many hours later, however, came another telegram, "Passed honors—very sorry crush so great did not see name this morning." The revulsion of feeling was so great that the student's reason gave way, and he became so violent in his excitement that he had to be confined. Fortunately he was not with us long and is now, I am glad to know, doing very well as a solicitor.

Disappointed love sends many people to asylums, but it is very seldom that success in wooing drives a man mad. It had this strange effect, however, on one of my late patients. The girl he loved had gone out to India to keep house for her brother before he had screwed up his courage to the point of proposing to her, but an offer followed by mail very quickly after her.

Weeks and months passed, and no answer came to the impatient lover until, after waiting two years in despair, he became engaged to a girl who had nothing but her money bags to recommend her and for whom he had not a particle of love. Scarcely, however, was his fate sealed than he received the long despaired of letter from India, accepting his offer and explaining that the girl's brother had received and mislaid the letter, which had only just been found and had come into her hands.

Within an hour of the receipt of this letter the man was a raving maniac, and although his condition is improved I doubt whether he will ever recover his reason.

In another remarkable case it was the joy at seeing her husband again that robbed a lady patient of her reason. Her husband was the captain of a merchant ship which was reported to have gone down with all hands. The widow had deeply mourned her husband for nearly a year, when one day on returning from a walk she found him sitting in the drawing room as hale and robust as ever.

With a shriek she fell unconscious on the floor, and when she recovered her reason was gone. It seems that her husband, after floating for some time, had been picked up by a passing "tramp" and had been landed on the west coast of Africa, from which he had returned home by the first available vessel.—London Tit-Bits.

'Tis Different In England.

"I suppose it's all right for Americans who visit Europe to talk with an English accent when they come home," reflected Uncle Allen Sparks, "but you never hear of any Englishmen talking through their noses and saying 'I guess' after they have spent a season in the United States and gone back home."—Chicago Tribune.

Hope.

"Say, pop, I've got to write a composition on 'Hope.' What is 'Hope,' anyway?"

"Hope, my boy, is the joyous expectation of being able to dodge our just deserts."—Life.

CHEERED THE CENSOR.

How a Gallant Irish Regiment Took an After Battle Scolding.

The leading regiment of our column was the Fifty-third, commanded that day by Major Payn, afterward General Sir William Payn, K. C. B., a very fine regiment, who, being mostly Irishmen, were eager to meet their enemy. Meanwhile I received orders to cross the river by a ford and get round the enemy's right flank, and I had gone for this purpose and was crossing about a quarter of a mile lower down, when suddenly I heard loud cheering and a heavy musketry fire, and then I saw our troops gallantly advancing across the bridge to the assault.

It turned out to be the Fifty-third, who, tired of the delay under fire and, it was whispered, hearing that Sir Colin had sent for his pet highlanders to take the bridge, took their bits between their teeth and without any further orders determined to rush the bridge themselves, which they accordingly did, and with great success. The enemy, once forced out of their position, showed but a poor, desultory fight and, as at Cawnpur, fell an easy prey to the cavalry, who, having crossed, some by the bridge and others, including myself, by the ford, fell on them and pursued them with such success that we captured every gun they had.

The Fifty-third were well pleased with themselves and the result of the fight they had so suddenly initiated, but we heard that Sir Colin was greatly annoyed with them and after the action rated them soundly for their insubordination. But little did these wild Irishmen care. They had had their fight, and a real good one, so far as they were concerned, and as Sir Colin concluded his speech of rebuke they gave him three cheers, and giving three cheers more for General Mansfield, Sir Colin's chief of staff, who had formerly commanded their regiment, they quite upset the chief's equanimity, but at the same time cleared away his wrath.—"Old Memories."

Gender of the Sword.

Among the many curious notions obtaining among the different races using the sword may be noted the gender of the weapon. In the north of Europe it was either masculine, as in Britain, or neuter, as in Germany, while in the south it was uniformly feminine. Its force and cruelty appealed to the northern mind. Its grace and elegance attracted the warriors of the sunny south. It typified to the one strength, to the other dignity.—Exchange.

Poor Meekton.

"Henrietta," said Mr. Meekton, "do you remember the moonlit evening when I asked you to marry me?"

"I trust, Leonidas, that you are not going to become sentimental and silly."

"Not a bit of it. But I often recall the occasion with interest. I can never quite understand how I managed to talk so familarly to you without seeming impertinent."—Washington Star.

All Cork.

"There goes a man with two cork legs. You'd never think it, would you?"

"Go away! Didn't I just see him running across the street like a deer to catch that street car? He couldn't do that with cork legs, could he?"

"Certainly, if, as happens to be the case, he was born in Cork.—Boston Courier.

Dyspepsia AND Liver Disease CURED BY DR. PIERCE'S GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY.

"I was weak, nervous and dizzy, with a fainting sensation when walking," writes Jesse Childress, Esq., of Samuel, Sullivan Co., Tenn. "Could not walk any distance; always felt bad after eating; felt as though something was sticking in my throat, always uneasiness in stomach. Doctored with three physicians but they did not relieve me. I grew worse and used everything I could think of; was nearly ready to give up and then some one told me that Dr. Pierce's medicine was good, so I began taking his 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I have taken seven bottles of that now and am as stout as ever, and enjoying health as much as ever before. I worked all summer and this winter as much as any one. My case was liver disease and nervous dyspepsia of which your medicine has cured me. In September 1898 my weight was about 95 pounds, now it is 195. Please accept my sincere thanks."

THERE is a fierce editorial scrap going on between Editor McDonnel, the owner of the Times of Sebastopol and the Enterprise of Healdsburg on the one side, and Editor Lemmon of the Republican of Santa Rosa on the other. Lemmons started the scrap and for his temerity has been pretty well squeezed by his younger but more formidable antagonist.

THE oil boom which struck this valley last year has got a back set. Many of the corporations were wild cat schemes that paid their local promotors fifty cents on the dollar for floating their worthless stock and as a result thousands of people in this State, and not a few in this valley, are being confronted with assessments instead of dividends. The oil boom, like the land boom, got its start in Southern California. They are twin brothers. An oil scheme for the most part is a gamble pure and simple and what is more, the investor plays the other fellow's game every time.

LATE advices from San Jose, says that local packers estimate the amount of prunes of the crop of 1900 now on hand at 1,000 cars. The estimated crop of Santa Clara county prunes this year is 40,000,000 pounds, which, together with the estimated 20,000,000 pounds of the Italian variety produced by Oregon, Washington and Idaho, constitute the stock to be disposed of. So far this season none of the commercial packers of the California Cured Fruit Association have made any particular effort to dispose of this season's crop. All feel inclind to get last year's crop out of the way first. The growers are showing signs of uneasiness, but the fruit association is confident of eventually finding a market for the new crop at a good figure. Prices remain the same, with few buyers.

THE Thanksgiving number of The Ladies' Home Journal is replete with good fiction and interesting and novel features. It opens appropriately with an article which tells "Where the President's Turkey Comes From." Then there are delightful stories by Hezekiath Butterworth and Laura Spencer Porter, and a new love story called "Christine," by Frederick M. Smith. Cleveland Moffett has an interesting story about Ira D. Sankey, the great evangelist, and Edith King Swain recounts the famous ascents she has made in various parts of the world. Will Branley's original designs for a house begin with the breakfast-room, and Wilson Eyre, Jr., presents plans for a country-house and a garden. Mr. Bok gives much gook advice to young married couples in his editorial. Another most timely feature is "Why Should a Young Man Support the Church?" by the Rev. Francis E. Clark. Many home-made Christmas gifts are shown, and the first of "The Journal's Amusing Puzzles" appear.

Weekly Crop Bulletin.

United States Department of Agriculture. Climate and Crop Bulletin of the Weather Bureau, California Section, Coast and Bay Division, for the week ending Monday, October 28, 1901:

Temperatures several degrees above normal prevailed in the Coast and Bay sections and in Southern California at the beginning of the week, with warm, clear weather in the valleys. Light rain commenced on the 23d in some sections, and continued at intervals throughout the State to the close of the week. In Southern California the rainfall was the heaviest for several years during the month of October. Considerable damage has been done by the rain in some sections, principally to grain in sacks, unbaled hay, late grapes and beans. The latter crop is reported seriously damaged in Santa Barbara and Ventura counties. Fruit trees, pasturage and early sown grain have been greatly benefited, and in some sections the soil is now in good condition for plowing and seeding. In portions of the San Joaquin valley the farmers are making preparations for an immense acreage of wheat. Corn and potato harvesting is progressing rapidly. The last crop of alfalf has been harvested

THE OBSERVER.

VALUE OF EDUCATION.

The value of education as a factor in success is the subject of an excellent article in The Outlook for September. Success is taken to be "the achievement of honest ambition in any worthy line of work accomplished by a just recognition of that achievement by that part of society interested in such labors." If we concede success to be such an achievement what is the effect of a college education for or against its attainment?

The question is answered on the basis of statistics from "Who's Who in America?" which is a biographical account of all individuals who have achieved the greatest success in the current activities of our country—governmental, financial, commercial, industrial, intellectual and artistic. From this list a table has been prepared showing the amount of educational training enjoyed by the 11,550 individuals whose names are recognized in the tabulations for 1901. Of these accurate information regarding the education of 8141 has been secured: 59.084 per cent. of the 8141 are college graduates, 11.853 per cent. are collegians not graduated, making a total of 70.937 per cent. collegians. The remaining per cent. were educated in either secondary, normal, high, private or common schools. Only 0.381 per cent. are self-taught. These figures ought to convince the public concerning the value of higher education in success.

In this age of competition the man who can do the best possible work in the shortest possible time is the man who achieves success. The educated man has been trained to use his brains, and so in the meanest occupation he may rise above his fellows. Education must equip the individual to do a piece of work better and quicker or the statistics would not be able to show so conclusively that knowledge is power.

With the approach of the grand opera season we call to mind all the brilliancy of former occasions. We remember what the papers had to say of the gorgeous gowns, the handsome women, the wealth of jewels, the lines of carriages, the full-dress suits, the crowded foyer, the ravishing song, the unbounded enthusiasm of its first night.

The grand opera season is a social event. Society flourishes its trumpets and comes out presumably to hail such artists as Calve and Eames. As a matter of fact it has other reasons. A horse show would suit a majority of its devotees just as well. This would afford an equal opportunity to display fine clothes and flash priceless diamonds. But the opera at present is the proper caper, and so subscribers are numerous and in the boxes and pit is to be seen all swelldom. Among them it is true there are some true music lovers but the greater number are pretenders. They do not appreciate the souls of the grand old masters which speak to them in the music of the opera. They are neither inspired by the arias themselves nor carried away by the interpretations of the great artist before them. They may be enthused by the bravos from above. They may be impressed by the beauty and brilliancy about them. Their environment kindles the fires of a sham appreciation, but this is as far from the true sympathy as is the gallery from the pit. The gallery is truly the abode of the god during the opera season. Judgment night has surely come when the first strains of Tannhauser comes to tickle the ears of these gallery gods. Then does the gallery cease to be a "peanut roost" and the small boy's whistle betakes itself to some ten-cent clime. Music-lovers now grace the heights—people who have saved and pinched and stinted themselves for a whole year to be able to spare a dollar or two for this supreme moment. Environment does not bother them. Music alone plays on their heart strings. Their "Bravos!" have the true ring. They are the true appreciators—the true critics. Money may purchase clothes and diamonds, boxes and carriages, but it can never purchase the heart and soul of the real music lover. The true æsthetic thrill is seldom felt where all is vanity and frivolous splendor.

One of Joe Tobin's biggest advocates for the Mayorality of San Francisco is Chas. Zinkand. There is nothing strange about it only one is apt to associate champagne and terrapin with the friendship. Mr. Zinkand runs a swell cafe for people who live on easy street. Mr. Tobin always has the price.

Barnum's Monkeys

"All well—all happy—lots of fun". That is the regular report from the monkey cage of Barnum's Circus ever since the keepers began dosing the monkeys with Scott's Emulsion. Consumption was carrying off two thirds of them every year and the circus had to buy new ones.

One day a keeper accidentally broke a bottle of Scott's Emulsion near the monkey cage and the monkeys eagerly lapped it up from the floor. This suggested the idea that it might do them good. Since then the monkeys have received regular doses and the keepers report very few deaths from consumption. Of course it's cheaper to buy Scott's Emulsion than new monkeys—and that suits the circus men.

Consumption in monkeys and in man is the same disease. If you have it or are threatened with it can you take the hint?

This picture represents the Trade Mark of Scott's Emulsion and is on the wrapper of every bottle.

THE RIGHT THING TO PUT ON.

(Benson's Plaster is Pain's Master.)

From the natural impulse to "put something on" a painful spot all applications for the relief of pain have arisen.

The most successful have ever been poultices or plasters, and the best of these is Benson's Porous Plaster.

No other has anything like the same power as a curative agent; it is highly and scientifically medicated, and its standard is advanced year by year.

Use Benson's Plaster for coughs, colds, chest diseases, rheumatism, grip, neuralgia, kidney trouble, lame back, and other ailments that make Winter a season of suffering and danger. It relieves and cures quicker than any other remedy.

Do not accept Capsicum, Strengthening or Belladonna plasters in place of Benson's, as they possess none of its curative power. Insist on having the genuine.

The people of every civilized land have testified for years to the superlative merit of Benson's Plasters; and 5,000 physicians and druggists of this country have declared them worthy of public confidence.

In official comparisons with others, Benson's Plasters have been honored with fifty-five highest awards.

For sale by all druggists, or we will prepay postage on any number ordered in the United States on the receipt of 25c. each. Accept no imitation or substitute.

A Minister's Mistake.

A city minister was recently handeda notice to be read from his pulpit. Accompanying it was a clipping from a newspaper bearing upon the matter. The clergyman started to read the extract and found that it began: "Take Kemp's Balsam, the best cough cure." This was hardly what he expected and, after a moment's hesitation, he turned it over, and found on the other side the matter intended for the reading.

Get the Most Out of Your Food

You don't and can't if your stomach is weak. A weak stomach does not digest all that is ordinarily taken into it. It gets tired easily, and what it fails to digest is wasted.

Among the signs of a weak stomach are uneasiness after eating, fits of nervous headache, and disagreeable belching.

"I have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla at different times for stomach troubles, and a run down condition of the system, and have been greatly benefited by its use. I would not be without it in my family. Relics of the Spanish-American War.

Ex-Sergeant E. E. Harris of the regular U. S. A., who saw some hard service during the Spanish-American war, and who is now recuperating in this valley, has quite a number of interesting and valuable relics picked up on the battlefields in the Philippines. Among them is a piece of electric wire taken from the Spanish cruiser the Reina Cristina, sunk by Admiral Dewey's war ships in the great naval battle of Manila Bay. The wire was used for discharging the big guns of the Spaniard. In the collection is also five Mauser cartridges, brass-coated bullets and a vicious looking steel pointed Remington cartridge. These were left on the battlefield by the fleeing Spanish troops when they were being chased by the boys of the First California Regiment at the fall of Manila. The collection also embraces type taken from Aguilando's printing office when it was seized by the Americans, and some rare coins, one of them being a Spanish 12½-cent silver piece coined in 1800.

Wine for New York.

A carload of red and white dry wine was shipped to New York from the Dresel winery Tuesday. This is one of many similar shipments made from this noted winery the past year.

THE RAINFALL.

Showers of Saturday and Sunday Were Beneficial.

The rain which fell in this valley last Saturday night and Sunday came at a most opportune time, as the grape harvest and fruit drying season were about over and the young grass, started by the showers that fell in September, was in need of more moisture.

The precipitation for the storm was 1.12 inches and the ground received a thorough soaking, putting it in fine condition for the plow.

The rainfall for the season, according to local U. S. Signal Observer Robt. Hall's rain guage, is 1.92 inches. For a corresponding period last year the precipitation was 2.44 inches.

A Temblor.

There was a sharp shock of earthquake felt here Tuesday afternoon at 4:35 o'clock. The sensation produced by the temblor was decidedly unpleasant. It came without warning and for a few seconds it appeared as though terra firma had dropped down a notch or two in its revolutions through space. In other words, the vibrations were neither from the north, south, east or west, but the shake was accompanied by a downward or falling movement that caused the cold shivers to run down one's back.

WINS A GOLD MEDAL.

Sonoma Valley Wines Again Honored — This Time at the Pan-American Exposition.

Sonoma Valley wines have won another victory. This time at the Pan-American Exposition. The Gundlach-Bundschu Wine Company of Sonoma and San Francisco, whose winery and vineyards are located on Rhinefarm two miles east of this place, have been awarded a gold medal for the excellence of their wines by the Committee on Awards of the Pan-American Exposition. The Gundlach-Bundschu Company also won a bronze medal for their brandy. Thus Sonoma Valley still maintains the lead for the excellence of its vintages.

ST. FRANCIS' CHURCH BENEFIT.

A Big Success — The Net Proceeds Over $100.

The entertainment last Saturday night for the benefit of St. Francis' Church was a big success in spite of the weather. The audience was a large and appreciative one and the refreshment booths were well patronized.

The programme was opened with a piano solo by Miss Shafter of San Francisco, who is an accomplished musician. Then followed eight numbers with numerous encores, most of them musical. Messrs. Hay of San Francisco were particularly good. The younger Hay, who possesses a rich baritone voice, sang "Out on the Deep," and for an encore rendered "Absent."

Miss Bergin, also of San Francisco, delighted the audience with her pleasing personality and excellent mezzo soprano voice.

There were other contributors to the excellent programme, among them little Ramona Granice, who gave rag-time selections in costume and Charles Lambert, the great coon shouter. The latter made the hit of the evening in "Go Way Back and Git Down." Miss Claire Hope was the accompanist.

After the programme dancing was inaugurated and continued until midnight.

The committee of ladies having the affair in hand report the net proceeds to be something like $120.

JACK GILSON DEAD.

Remarkable History of an Indian.

Jack Gilson, an educated Shasta Indian, who has made his home on the Champlin ranch between this place and Lakeville for twenty-eight years, is dead. He passed away Monday, was buried in Petaluena Tuesday and is now in Heaven if anybody is there. Read this from the Petaluma Argus and see if you don't coincide with us:

"Jack Gilson had a varied history. He was a Shasta Indian but was taken to San Francisco when but little more than a baby and traded off for a pair of saddle blankets.

"For years he made his home with the Parrish family in San Francisco in the old Niantic Hotel the famous hostelry built out of th, hulk of an old ship and run for many years by Parrish. After quitting the hotel business Parrish went to Oregon and was drowned on his way back in the wreck of the Brother Jonathan. The Parrish family were left destitute by the death of Mr. Parrish and Jack Gilson devoted himself to the family. He went out to work and supported Mrs. Parrish and the two little boys for a long time. Mrs. Parrish's mind gave way and she was committed to the Stockton asylum and the boys were placed in an orphanage. Jack Gilson never rested until he got the boys out of the orphanage and in homes of their own. He watched and worked over these boys until they no longer needed his protecting wing. Those boys are now grown men working in San Francisco.

"Twenty-eight years ago Jack Gilson made his home in the family with whom he remained until his death Monday. He was sometimes with one branch and sometimes with another. He was ever faithful and reliable and years ago took care of the younger generation in the different families in which he lived. Jack Gilson was an educated man. He subscribed for and thoroughly read the newspapers. He dressed on Sundays and holidays in white shirts and neat black suits. He was thoroughly posted on current events. He was specially interested in sporting matters. His sickness was of some duration. He was 62 years of age. His white friends, remembering his years of faithful service, gave him decent burial."

SONOMA, SATURDAY, NOV. 2, 1901.

In the School of Work.

Charles A. Dana of the New York Sun was a man of extensive learning and attached great importance to college training, but was quick to recognize the value of the practical education that a man of good parts may pick up in this workaday world outside of university walls.

A young man went to The Sun office one day and asked to see the editor in chief. He would not be rebuffed by the subordinates and after some delay was admitted. He stated his business without a moment's loss of time.

"Mr. Dana," he said, "I believe I could be of some use on this paper, and I want you to give me a trial. If you don't find me of any use, you needn't pay me any salary, and if you do I shall want a good salary. If I don't find my proper groove in a month, you can drop me out."

Mr. Dana looked him over.

"Young man," he said, "I like your looks. Have you ever attended any institution of learning?"

"Yes, sir. I am a graduate of two newspaper offices, one a country weekly and the other a daily paper in a city of 100,000 inhabitants."

"I'll take you. Go and report to the managing editor."

And Mr. Dana turned again to his work.—Youth's Companion.

Tennessee's Wealth of Oak Timber.

One of Tennessee's richest fields of natural resources is in its forests. Most of her timbered land is as yet virgin, and at the top of the list of the varieties to be found is oak. That tree is one of the most valuable that ever grew, and this state is more than usually rich in it.

Oak timber is practically indestructible when not exposed to the elements of the atmosphere. I mean that oak timber can be submerged in the ground or buried in the water, where the atmosphere does not affect it, and it will last for so many years that the man who had put it there is dead and forgotten by the time it has decayed.

It is a growing favorite, and deservedly so, in many ways of manufacturing furniture and in finishing fine houses. The price on it is always firm, and every now and then it makes a spurt and climbs up a point from which it never will fall. If the forests of this tree to be found in Tennessee today are here 90 years from now, this will be one of the richest states in the Union.—Knoxville Sentinel.

An East Indian Verdict.

In a case in one of our Indian courts a jury had before them evidence that could not be in any way shaken. When the concluding stage had been reached, the following interchange of conversation took place between the judge and his colleagues in the administration of justice:

"Gentlemen, are you ready to give your verdict?"

"Yes."

"What is your verdict?"

"Our answer is, sir, that you can do as you like with the men that have confessed, but we acquit all the rest."

"But is it possible that you have weighed the evidence?"

"Evidence like this can always be fabricated."

"Do you find that as regards these prisoners it has been fabricated?"

"Evidence can be fabricated."

"So the evidence is untrustworthy?"

"Unless a man confesses who can tell if he is guilty?"—Bombay Gazette.

Close to a Fool.

A farmer was working in his field when a sewing machine man came along.

"Good morning," said the sewing machine barker.

"Mornin."

"Your corn seems to be pretty yellow."

"Yaas; I planted yellow cawn."

"You don't seem to have more than half a crop."

"Waal, I planted it on the halves."

"You seem pretty close to a fool."

"Yaas; there's only a fence between us."

When the sewing machine man came to, it required the services of two doctors to get him into such shape that he was able to make the next town.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

A Pound of Swallows.

How many live swallows go to a pound? This question lately formed the subject of a bet in the little town of N——, in Baden. A swallow was caught and its legs and wings tied up with a piece of silk thread and placed on the scales. To everybody's surprise it was found to weigh only ten grams, so that it takes 50 of them to make up a pound.—Karlsruher Nachrichten.

The Suspension Bridge.

There is no doubt that the first idea of a suspension bridge was suggested to primitive man by the interlacing of tree branches and parasitical plants across rivers. Probably monkeys used them before men did. In very mountainous countries, such as Tibet and Peru, they have apparently been used since the dawn of history, possibly earlier.

A Tour of the Escurial.

It requires about four days to make an investigation of the Escurial, the great Spanish palace, there being such a multitude of rooms and apartments. To travel all the halls, chambers, corridors, lengths and depths of the great palace would require a tour amounting to over 100 miles.

Healthy Trees.

The time in the summer at which the leaves begin to turn is a tolerably sure indication of the soundness of the tree. Some trees will keep their foliage green until September, while the leaves of unhealthy trees will begin to show signs of turning brown or yellow in August.

A WORTHY SUCCESSOR.

"Something New Under the Sun."

All Doctors have tried to cure CATARRH by the use of powders, acid, gases, inhalers and drugs in paste form. Their powders dry up the mucuous membranes, causing them to crack open and bleed. The powerful acids used in the inhalers have entirely eaten away the same membranes that their makers have aimed to cure, while pastes and ointments cannot reach the disease. An old and experienced practitioner who has for many years made a close study and specialty of the treatment of CATARRH, has at last perfected a Treatment which when faithfully used, not only relieves at once, but permanently curres CATARRH, by removing the cause stopping the discharge, and curing all inflammation. It is the only remedy known to science that actually reaches the afflicted parts. This wonderful remedy is known as "SNUFFLES the GUARANTEED CATARRH CURE" and is sold at the extremely low price of One Dollar, each package containing internal and external medicine sufficient for a full month's treatment and everything necessary to its perfect use.

"SNUFFLES" is the only perfect CATARRH CURE ever made and is now recognized as the only safe and positive cure for that annoying and disgusting disease. It cures all inflammation quickly and permanently and is also wonderfully quick to relieve HAY FEVER or COLD in the HEAD.

CATARRH when neglected often leads to CONSUMPTION—"SNUFFLES" will save you if you use it at once. It is no ordinary remedy, but a complete treatment which is positively guaranteed to cure CATARRH in any form or stage if used according to directions which acompany each package. Don't delay but send for it at once, and write full particulars as to your condition, and you will receive special advice from the discoverer of this wonderful remedy regarding your case without cost to you beyond the regular price of "SNUFFLES" the "GUARANTEED CATARRH CURE.

Sent prepaid to any address in the United States or Canada on the receipt of One Dollar. Address Dept. E 428, EDWIN B. GILES & COMPANY, 2330 and 2332 Market street, Philadelphia.

Jumped on Ten Penny Nail.

The little daughter of J. N. Powell jumped on an inverted rake made of ten penny nails, and thrust one entirely through her foot and a second one half-way through. Chamberlain's Pain Balm was promptly applied and five minutes later the pain had disappeared and no more suffering was experienced. In three days the child was wearing her shoe as usual and with absolutely no discomfort. Mr. Powell is a well-known merchant of Forkland, Va. Pain Balm is an antiseptic and heals such injuries without maturation and in one-third the time required by the usual treatment. For sale by F. Duhring. *

Nasal Catarrh quickly yields to treatment by Ely's Cream Balm, which is agreeably aromatic. It is received through the nostrils, cleanses and heals the whole surface over which it diffuses itself. Druggists sell the 50c. size; Trial size by mail, 10 cents. Test it and you are sure to continue the treatment.

Announcement.

Price including the spraying tube is 75 cents. Druggists or by mail. The liquid form embodies the medicinal properties of the solid preparation.

LINCOLN'S LOGIC.

How Old Abe Learned to Tell When a Thing Is Proved.

A man who heard Abraham Lincoln speak in Norwich, Conn., some time before he was nominated for president, was greatly impressed by the closely knit logic of the speech. Meeting him next day on a train he asked him how he acquired his wonderful logical powers and such acuteness in analysis.

Lincoln replied: "It was my terrible discouragement which did that for me. When I was a young man, I went into an office to study law. I saw that a lawyer's business is largely to prove things. I said to myself, 'Lincoln, when is a thing proved?' That was a poser. What constitutes proof? Not evidence; that was not the point. There may be evidence enough, but wherein consists the proof? I groaned over the question, and finally said to myself, 'Ah, Lincoln, you can't tell.' Then I thought what use is it for me to be in a law office if I can't tell when a thing is proved?

"So I gave it up and went back home. Soon after I returned to the old log cabin I fell in with a copy of Euclid. I had not the slightest notion of what Euclid was, and I thought I would find out. I therefore began at the beginning, and before spring I had gone through the old Euclid's geometry and could demonstrate every proposition in the book. Then in the spring, when I had got through with it, I said to myself one day, 'Ah, do you know when a thing is proved?' and I answered, 'Yes, sir, I do. Then you may go back to the law shop;' and I went."—Exchange.

What to Read.

Read the good old books that have lived and held their own by the vitality of matter and style that makes them standards. Don't read a lot of new books about the Bible. Read the Bible, and then you will understand what you may afterward read about the Bible. Read Shakespeare, not controversies on Shakespeare; read Scott and Thackeray and Dickens and George Eliot. Do not be content with a short history of literature that tells you their best works and makes a few disconnected extracts and tells you their standing and what you should think of them.

Read intelligently and with interest, and every book you read will guide you to the next that is good for you personally far better than a strange mentor can do, who is often full of theories and prejudices or perhaps has got up a course of study as a "pot boiler" and has no real love of his subject.

Horses' Sunbonnets.

The wearing of sunbonnets by horses in hot weather is by no means a modern invention. In an old Italian print, dated 1542, a gentleman is shown riding on horseback with an umbrella fixed over his own head and another over that of his horse. In Mexico horses are often protected by a small parasol rising over the head, and a horse similarly accommodated has lately been seen in Regent street. Unfortunately this headdress annoyed the conventional "horse in the street," and it came very near causing more than one disaster on the way to Langham place.—London Chronicle.

Not Needed.

According to the London Vanity Fair, a celebrated surgeon met a young officer in Piccadilly one day and greeted him with surprise. "Well, I am pleased to see you! I am surprised! Do you know I have a portion of your brain in a jar at home?"

"Ah, well," laughed the other, "I can easily spare that. I have got a berth in the war office."
